Board of County Commissioners, Oxford County, South Paris, Maine.

At the request of the Board of Commissioners of Bethel I am writing in regard to closing the short section of road at Bethel's corner to Bethel. It is the desire of the Board to have this closed subject "To Gates and Back" so any necessary travel may still continue.

Yours truly,

We can now locate and put in boundaries of these and the critical area of the U. S. Our maps have been on the bulletin board. All of us made baskets and filled them with flowers for Mother's Day. Thursday our room was a carpenter's shop for we each made a gift for mother from wood. There were robin stickers, bird feeders, tick-makes, bird feeders, and many other things. After the making was applied we were very proud of our work. Even grade 1 with Mrs. Morgan's help drove nails and helped to assemble the own. Friday Mrs. Morgan was surprised at recess by a Maypole from all of the Friday evening at seven o'clock we presented our Mother's Day party. Our program was the presentation of our plays to go with the Maypoles which we made ear.

WORTH REPEATING

"If yours is an average American family it costs you the next sum of $100 a year just to pay your share of the paperwork done by the federal government. That is one of the startling facts produced in a newly-published Hoover Commission report, which goes into the paperwork problems in detail and makes certain recommendations for reorganization and reform."—Boston (Mass.) Punch-line to the year's hottest power story—

Chevrolet "Turbo-Fire V8"!

This is the engine that's writing a whole new chapter in the book of automobile performance records. This is the engine that has stock car timers doing a "double take" at their stop-watches wherever experts gather to compare the abilities of the 1955 cars.

For example, in the recent NASCAR stock car competition at Daytona Beach, Florida, Chevrolet literally ran away from every other car in its class—and a raft of others besides. In the one-mile straightaway run for low-priced cars, the first two places—and six of the first ten—went to Chevrolets. And in acceleration runs from a standing start against all comers, Chevrolet beat all other low-priced cars—and every high-priced car except one!

What's behind this blazing performance? A compact honey of a V8 that only the world's leading producer of valve-in-head engines can build. Chevrolet's new "Turbo-Fire V8" has the shortest piston stroke in the industry (that means less piston travel...longer engine life!) And it delivers the highest power per pound of any V8 in the low-priced field. It's so efficient that it requires only four quarts of oil instead of the usual five...needs less radiator coolant, too. It's the most modern V8 under anybody's hood!

It puts a new kind of fun in your driving life. You're in charge of 162 high-spirited horsepower—or if you're looking for even more excitement, the new "Super Turbo-Fire V8" (optional at extra cost) puts 180 h.p. under your toes!

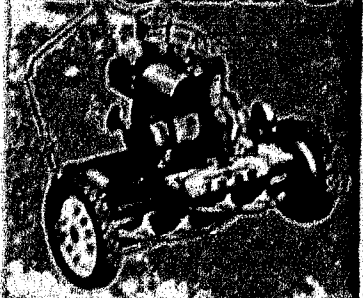

Pick the one you'd rather have fun with, then come in and get behind the wheel. You'll see why the Motorama Chevrolet is showing its heels to everyone else on the road!

No other low-priced car has any—no high-priced car has all—of those great Chevrolet features!

Body by Fisher—Ninety engine-drive choices in any model—12-volt electrical system—Anti-Dive braking—Outrigger rear springs—Ball-Race steering—High-Level ventilation—Double-Arch coil construction.

A surprise birthday party for Miss Varner and Mrs. Lord was held by the sixth grades. Neither teacher suspected a thing, and both were very happily surprised. The party went as follows: "Happy Birthday" was sung; games were played, a race in which the two teachers had to sit on balloons and break them (Mrs. Lord won) was held, and refreshments consisting of cake, cookies, drinks, and candy were enjoyed. Miss Varner's room was in charge of refreshments, while Mrs. Lord's room took over the entertainment.

Girls were presented after the teachers had lost the jackpot on a make-believe quiz program called "Easy Jack-pot." The question they went down on was "How Many Teeth Have Birds?" The correct answer is 3 (one). Baby birds have one tooth when they are very young. However, the tooth soon falls out. This is verified by World Book Encyclopedia. — South America Notebooks were turned in on Friday, May 6. Most of the ranks were pleasing. — Everyone is writing a story for Friday, May 13. It will be on the subject of "How to Make Something." — We have four gold seals in Penmanship and are hoping for a final gold seal and a blue ribbon. — Reporters: Dixie Lea Brown and Lucie Feltier.

Grade 6—Miss Varner
Those who have not been absent this year are: Jean Waterhouse, Elizabeth Jackson, Jeffrey Hutchins, Irene Williams, Miss Varner. — Last week we had a birthday party for Miss Varner and Mrs. Lord, although Mrs. Lord's birthday is not until June. Our room furnished refreshments and Mrs. Lord's room entertainment. — In arithmetic we had review of fractions and felt we did very well. — In English we are studying the four kinds of sentences. — Kenneth Heath.

Grade 8—Mrs. Lurvey
Our graduation is well underway by now. All the parts have been given out. — We were all pleased with the results of our fair. We made $63.00, clear profit. — In arithmetic we are doing equations. — At our class meeting we voted for a class motto. It was "Strive Today for a Better Tomorrow." — We decided to have the eighth graders from Gilead and Newry go on our class trip with us. — Ruth Willard and Sara Stowell, correspondents.

Gould J.V.s 32—Hebron Reserves 0
Anderson pitched a no-hitter Saturday afternoon as Gould Academy J.V.s humbled the Hebron Reserves 32-0 in a one-sided baseball duel called by agreement after five innings of play. The winners collected 23 hits during the rout.

Anderson and Terry Russell, Hope, Kant and Scolnik. Fryeburg 25—Gould 20
The Gould baseball varsity team motored to Fryeburg on Monday where they lost to the home team by a score of 25-20 in a marathon game which extended well into the evening hours. The Gould J.V.s won a close one from Andover on the same date by a score of 7-6.

The girls of the Academy are planning a bike hike to Sandy Beach on Saturday.

One of the best sports events of the season will take place on Alumni Field on Saturday, when Gould will entertain Cony High of Augusta and Edward Little High of Auburn in a triangular meet. The pole vault and the discus events will start at 1:30 p. m. The Huskies have won over Stephens High and Farmington in their first two meets but will be pushed to the limit by these two class "L" schools.

Coach Bowhay's club, getting off to a slow start this season, will be travelling to Norway for a Western Maine Conference game on Saturday. The Gould pastimers dropped their first two games by run margins but came back strong to submerge leading South Paris by a 21 to 3 score. The Huskies need this one to stay in the race. Howie Rolfe will probably be picked to pitch this one.

Bridgton, one of the new league entries, will furnish the opposition at Bethel on Tuesday, May 17. This game is scheduled to start at 3:30. The Bryant Pond varsity soundly trounced the Gould J.V.s in the opening game of the season here at Bethel. The young understudies are slated to meet them again on Monday in a 4 p. m. game. Stan Newell will probably start on the mound for Gould with Terry Russell behind the plate.

Conservation Farming In Oxford County

by Douglas L. Marston
Soil Conservation Service

The Oxford County Soil Conservation Tree Planter will be planting about 150 thousand trees this spring.

Perry Chapman Jr. of Norway was the first to use the planter this year. Mr. Chapman planted 12,000 trees on some land that he owns on Pike's Hill in Norway. This land was formerly in hayfields, but has been idle for several years. Mr. Chapman says that he wished he had planted the area ten years earlier.

This tree planter was purchased by the Oxford County Soil Conservation District last spring and has proven to be a valuable contribution to the tree planting program in the County.

The machine is very simple to operate and is easily handled by any medium-sized farm tractor. A tractor driver and someone on the planter is the only crew necessary to do the job.

VIRUS STILL WITH US

New York, like other states, faces a severe tax and budget situation. Proposals for heavy tax increases, which would fall on both individuals and business, are being debated in the legislature. According to report, taxpayers are "fighting mad" over the proposals.

At the same time, top New York officials are trying to get Congress to pass a bill to enable the state to finance, build and operate a $500,000-plus hydroelectric power project on the Niagara River near the falls.

In one way or another, of course, the taxpayers of New York would have to put up the money. They would also lose the millions that would be paid in taxes if private enterprise undertook the project. And this is definitely not a situation where the project must be undertaken by the state or not undertaken at all. Five utility companies, with a splendid record of experience and achievement behind them, are all ready to go ahead with it—without private capital, not taxpayers' capital. They would have broken ground long ago—but Congress has not given them the authority. A bill to do that passed the house last session by a big margin, but never came to a vote in the Senate. These utilities, as well as being major taxpayers, are also regulated by public service commissions, which see to it that their rates are fair and their service first-class.

This certainly presents a curious spectacle—that of state officials, in a state which apparently can't make both ends meet without increasing the tax burden murderously, trying to spend a large sum for a job which private enterprise is ready and able to do. It's also an example of the fact that the virus of socialism is still with us—in the states as well as in Washington, D. C. Unless the people make it clear that they want it exterminated, it will exhaust their pocketbooks, even as it eats away at their freedoms and rights.

FISH AND GAME LICENSE BILL SIGNED BY GOVERNOR

An increase of approximately 25% in hunting and fishing license fees became a certainty for sportsmen of Maine next year with the signing of the necessary legislation by Governor Muskie. The bill will take effect as of January 1, 1956.

The cost of resident hunting and fishing licenses will increase from $2.50 to $3.15 each, with the combination license increasing from $4.25 to $5.00. Under the new law, a resident guide's license will be upped to $4.75 from the present $3.75.

Non-resident hunters are going to have to pay $15.00 next year for a big game license instead of the present $10.00 fee, but the $10.00 non-resident small game license will remain the same.

In the fishing picture the non-resident fees will go from the present $7.75 up to $10.75 for a season license. The present 15-day license will increase from $1.75 to $3.75, and the three-day license will go from $1.25 to $1.75. The junior non-resident license, issued to children between the ages of 10 and 16, will remain at $2.50.

The increase in the license fees came about through the efforts of organized sportsmen's groups throughout the State. These groups went on record with their legislators as favoring additional charges for licenses in order to carry out the Department of Inland Fisheries and Game's proposed expansion of its present program.

"If a Russian worker had an opportunity to walk into a typical American retail store he wouldn't be able to find his way. The abundance would seem as unusual. PRIVATE INDUSTRY RUN FOREST LANDS BETTER THAN GOVT. SAY LUMBER MEN

A spokesman for the nation's lumber manufacturers has declared that the private industry is doing a better job than government of managing forest lands.

Leo V. Bodine, executive vice president of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, said benefits to the nation's economy would have been "substantially greater" if the government's commercial timber lands had been privately owned.

In a speech before the Texas Lumber Manufacturers Association, Bodine proposed a three-point plan of action to meet some of the problems posed by government land ownership. He called for:

1. An ever-current inventory of all federal lands within states and counties.

2. A joint study by Congress and the states to determine a desirable pattern of ownership for forest, range and conservation lands.

3. A detailed statement by the government of its forest land policies.

More timber was cut from federal forests during 1954 than in any previous year in U. S. history, Bodine recalled. "But even in that year, the cut was equivalent to only an average of about 80 board feet per acre... far below the growth potential under good management."

"During the past decade, the national forests, which contain 32 per cent of all the saw timber in the 48 states, contributed less than 15 per cent of the total timber harvested."

Bodine noted that the government—through the national forests and other holdings—owns and operates about 20 per cent, or more than 60 million acres, of the nation's commercial forest land and more than 37 per cent of the country's saw timber.

He said this "monopoly ownership" constitutes a "strong element of competition" to private forest operators and has caused many private sawmills to become completely dependent upon federal sources of supply. Bodine added:

"In such enterprise, the government has the great advantage of not being required to meet payroll taxes and other costs of production from receipts."

"Government timber is offered on the open market in competition with private timber. In periods when prices are low, the private producers of timber may have to fight valiantly with the government for a diminishing market."

The lumber leader also emphasized:

"Contrary to general belief, the total of federal forest properties of a commercial character are not paying their way if all true costs are charged against revenue."

While there are some indirect benefits attributable to watershed protection, recreation and similar returns, and the productive elements of these lands have in private ownership during the same period, time benefits to the national economy today, including indirect returns, would be substantially greater."

Liberal Kas, Southwest Daily Times: "Proof that industry is moving in less populated centers for various reasons, is evidenced plainly in the case of the chemical industry. Of this industry's recent list of 45 construction projects, only nine or less than two per cent, are in major metropolitan centers. The trend of industrial expansion is away from the larger cities."

MAINE GROWERS PLAN TO PLANT TOO MANY POTATOES

Maine growers—along with those in other states—plan to plant too many late crop potatoes this year, says the United States Department of Agriculture.

Arline C. Hazlett, Extension Service economist in marketing, University of Maine, says that Maine growers reported March 1 they intended to plant 13 per cent more potatoes than the USDA's guide recommendations. Increased intentions to plant over the recommended guides include Long Island, N. Y., six per cent; North Dakota and Minnesota, each 11 per cent; Idaho, 13 per cent; Colorado, 7 per cent; Utah, 9 per cent; Oregon and Northern California, each 6 per cent; and Washington, 12 per cent.

HORSE AND BUGGY REGULATION

One of the best discussions of our obsolete system of regulating the railroads and other common carriers has come from the man who heads the federal agency which carries out the regulatory laws—Chairman Mitchell of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

He said, "Today regulation is practically the same as it was 30 years ago. But I say... that if you believe in private ownership, regulation must change. The old rules are as much out of date as the horse and buggy."

Mr. Mitchell then went into detail concerning some of the regulatory inequities and injustices. He emphasized the enormous difference in the operation of regulated as against nonregulated industry. He cited, as an example, a recent case where a major manufacturing company entered into an agreement raising the wages of its hundreds of thousands of employees. The following day it announced a compensatory increase in the price of its products. This was natural and inevitable—the company has no other source of income except its sales, and when operating costs jump the prices it charges must reflect that.

But what if the industry involved had been a regulated common carrier, like the railroads, truck lines and the others? Mr. Mitchell said: "They cannot increase the price of the product they sell—to wit service—without first securing the consent of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The record of the past shows that it takes months, even years to secure this consent. The delay... has cost these common carriers hundreds of millions of dollars. There is no known way of getting it back; it is gone."

There is little the ICC can do about the problem—it is bound by the laws. The solution lies in a change in these obsolete laws, and only Congress can do that. No one is asking any special favors for the carriers. What is urgently needed is a regulatory system that recognizes the facts of life of today.

MAINE INCREASE SHARE OF BOSTON EGG MARKET

In addition to raising hundreds of tons of broilers annually, Maine produces top-quality eggs for table and hatching use. During the last year Maine increased its share of the Boston shell egg market from 20 to 22 per cent. Its share was only 10 per cent in 1949. New Hampshire had 32 per cent of the 1954 Boston egg market, followed by Massachusetts with 26 per cent.

This would mean that more than 73,000 acres of potatoes not needed to satisfy normal requirements are going to be planted in these nine areas and Maine. Hazlett quotes the USDA as saying, "This excess acreage with average yields would produce more than 21 million bushels of surplus potatoes."

The recent rapid increase in potato prices also may encourage over-planting of potatoes and hurt the 1955-56 markets. The USDA had previously recommended a five per cent cut in late-crop production, if marketing difficulties were to be avoided. In 1953 and again in 1954 production in excess of demand hurt markets and cut returns to farmers in Maine and other important areas.

Recommended acreage guides were issued by the Department of Agriculture to obtain a balanced production in 1955. They called for a cut from last year of about five and one-half per cent in planted acreage. The reduction would be 15 per cent in Maine; 10 per cent in Minnesota and North Dakota; and five per cent in the Western states.

Hazlett points out that Maine growers would be wise to consider the national picture. They should realize that excess potato acreage results in too many potatoes, difficult marketing conditions, and unsatisfactory prices. Only growers themselves can solve the problem.

In the past three years, explains Hazlett, potato growers in the United States have planted on the average three per cent more acreage than the intended on March 1. In Maine growers have planted an average of 11 per cent more than they intended as of March 1. In 1954 the plantings in Maine exceeded intentions by 12 per cent, and in the United States plantings exceeded intentions by four per cent.
